Richmond's Hope

Supporting Bereaved Families Since 2003

Research has shown that 1 in 3 children benefit from bereavement support.
(Bereavement in Childhood Penny & Stubbs 2015)

We currently work in Edinburgh and Glasgow; we want to expand our service to areas where there is currently no support.

Young bereaved people are more likely than their peers to experience physical illness.

Four months after their parent's death 44% of children expressed fear for their surviving parent's safety.

Young bereaved people are more likely to self-harm, to complete suicide, to experience depression or anxiety or undertake risky behaviours.

90% of the inmates in Polmont Young Offenders Institute have had a significant bereavement in childhood.

1 in every 29 school age children have been bereaved of a parent or sibling.

We support children & young people aged 4-18 to live well with their grief.

Welcome to the 2019 Women of Achievement Lunch

This is the twelfth Women of Achievement Lunch in London and I am delighted to welcome you all here today. The lunch was established to celebrate the achievements and contribution made in many fields by women who have Scottish connections and to support small, but vital Scottish charities. Thank you to all of you who have supported the lunch over the years and welcome to those joining us for the first time.

Last year we supported Smart Works in Edinburgh and thanks to you all, we raised over £20,000 which went directly to the charity enabling them to support women on low incomes to get back into employment, empowering them to succeed at their job interview and change the direction of their lives.

This year's charity is Richmond's Hope. A tiny, but amazing charity, which I have been privileged to have got to know over the last couple of years. Started by the Rev. Liz Henderson, the charity is the leading provider of child bereavement support in Glasgow and Edinburgh and, with our help, will be able to extend the reach to further parts of Scotland.

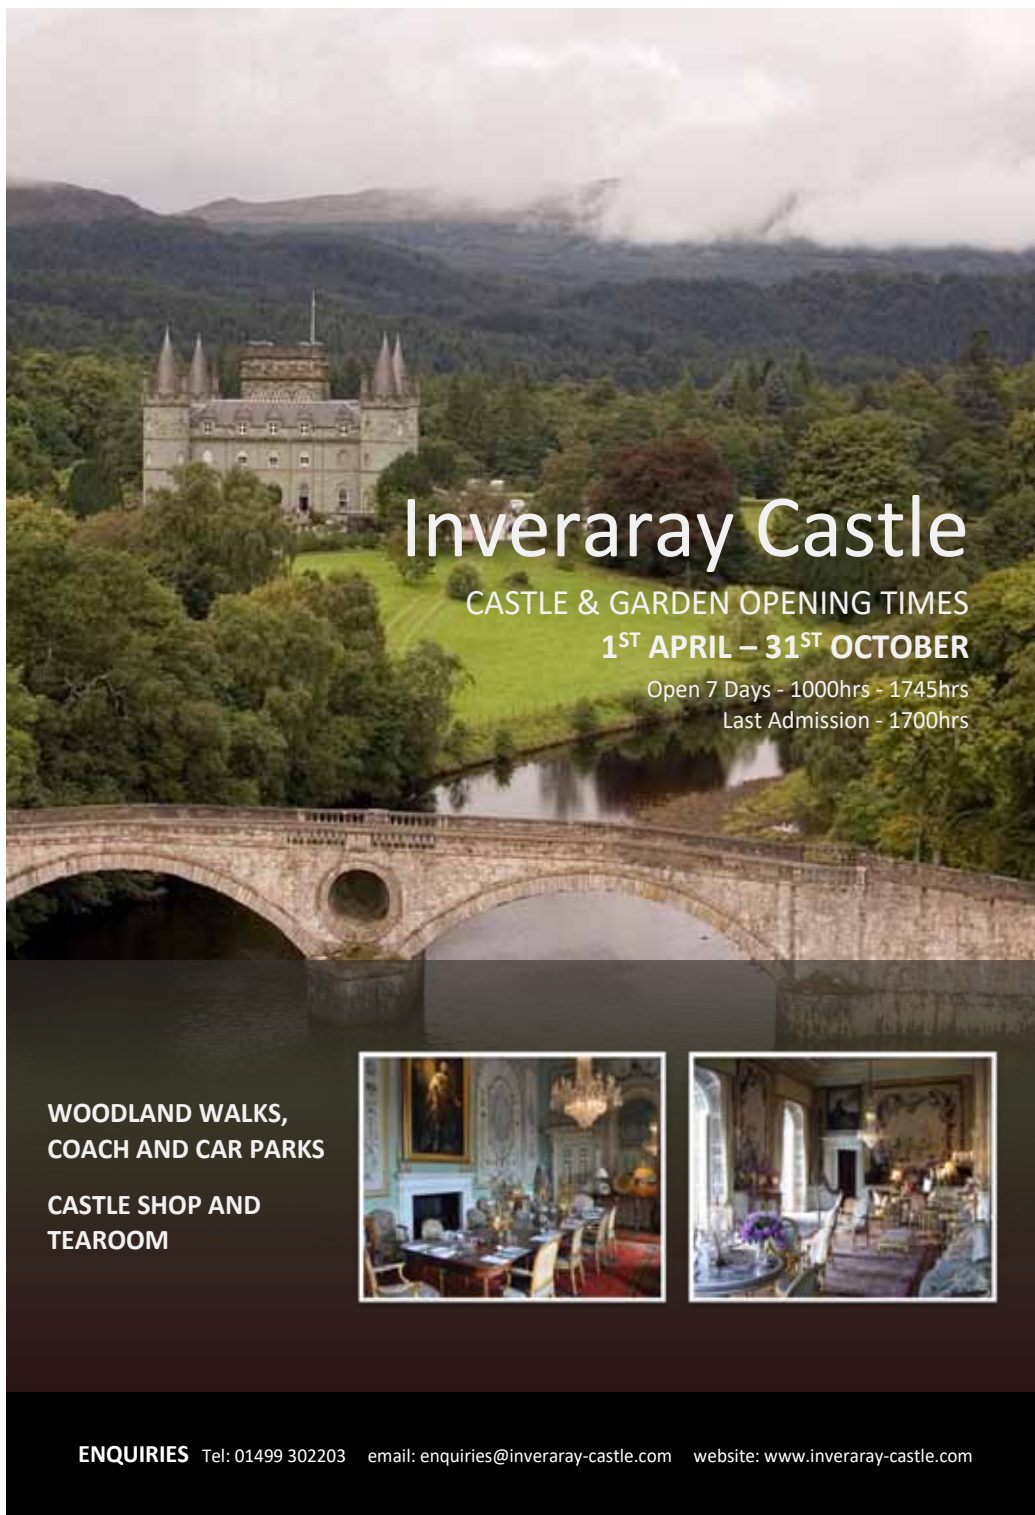

One child in every class at school will lose a significant member of their family and without the right support the chances of this clouding their adult life is immense. Young bereaved people have statistically been shown to be more likely to self-harm, suffer from depression or contemplate suicide. The percentage of prisoners who have suffered a major bereavement in childhood at Polmont Young Offenders is 90% and Richmond's Hope works to help children and young people to work through their grief and develop coping strategies for the future.

I have visited both centres and the work that Richmond's Hope does is truly wonderful, working both with children and Teenagers, as well as working with the families affected. The counselling rooms are well thought out, the staff inspirational and where the children are allowed to be children despite all that they might be going through.

Our speakers this year are Rev. Liz Henderson (Founder of Richmond's Hope), Dame Penelope Keith and Cath Kidston.

My particular thanks go to the Committee who have worked so hard and given willingly of their time and talents to make this lunch a success. Thank you all so much for joining us and for giving so generously to this very worthwhile cause.

Rev. Liz Henderson MA BD Mth

Rev. Liz Henderson is currently the minister of Richmond Craigmillar Church, which is situated in a deprived area of Edinburgh. Educated at Laurel Bank School in Glasgow she went on to study Mathematics in Aberdeen University and then Theology at Edinburgh University. From 2005 until 2014 Liz was a presenter of Radio Scotland's "Thought for the Day" programme. She was moderator of Edinburgh Presbytery in 2012 and appointed as a chaplain-in-ordinary to her Majesty the Queen in April 2018. Liz is married to the Rev'd Dr. Jim Jack and they live in Duddingston.

Weeks into her role as minister of Richmond Craigmillar Church, Liz visited Jessie Douglas, a local resident, because her son had been killed in a motorbike accident the night before. He was 28.

In the following year, there were fifteen young people who died in the community, leaving thirty-four children bereaved of a father, mother or sibling. Liz conducted the funerals of each of these young people and provided pastoral support to some of the families. During this time, she and Jessie became aware of the impact that grief was having on the children and realised that the children needed far more support than they could, or was being, offered.

Statistics have shown that young bereaved people are more likely to self-harm, to complete suicide and to experience depression or anxiety. They are more likely to suffer from physical illness without the relevant help and the chance of grief clouding their adult life is shown in the terrifying statistic of 90% of the inmates at Polmont Young Offenders in Scotland suffering significant bereavement in childhood.

Plans were made, funds were raised and Richmond's Hope was opened in 2003. A skilled team was put together and since the opening they have provided individual support for over 3,000 children and are the leading provider of support for bereaved children in Scotland.

Cath founded Cath Kidston Ltd in 1993 in a small store in London's Notting Hill with a start-up budget of just £15,000. From her original 'home store' concept she built and developed the business into the influential and highly recognisable global brand it is today, with more than 220 stores worldwide and a global e-commerce business.

Prior to starting Cath Kidston, Cath co-founded the interior design and 'curtinalia' company McKinney Kidston in a store off the King's Road in Chelsea (1988-1993) having previously trained in interior design under the celebrated decorator Nicholas Haslam (1985-1988).

Cath remained Creative Director of Cath Kidston Ltd until December 2014, when she moved to a non-executive board role; a role she left in February 2016 when the business was valued at £250m.

In 2010 Cath was awarded an MBE for services to Business; she is now a trustee of the charity Fine Cell Work, mentors start-ups and runs a new independent design studio, Joy of Print.

Proudly sponsors the Women of Achievement Luncheon and Richmond's Hope. Delivering support for children and young people who have been bereaved.

Tim Wishart launched Psigma's Edinburgh office in 2014, leading the firm's expansion in Scotland. After a number of years working at James Capel and Rathbones in London, Tim returned to his Scottish roots in 2007.

Psigma launched in 2002 and opened its doors to provide an alternative to large institutions no longer able to offer a personal service. Tim and his team continue to offer this same personal service today and work with a range of clients from wealthy individuals to charities, trusts and pension schemes.

A Thank You from Smart Works

Beneficiary of the Women of Achievement Luncheon 2018

Your generous donation to Smart Works has contributed greatly towards changing the direction of 232 women's lives in Scotland. During the course of this year, 70% of the women we have dressed and interview trained have returned to employment.

The growth of the charity is dependent on donations such as yours enabling us, after four years, to continue to broaden our horizons.

With your help, we now have two salaried employees who run the daily operations of the Edinburgh office. A manager who is 70% customer facing, establishing relationships in the market place and supporting the delivery and implementation of our strategy, and a new Administration and Communications Assistant who has made a massive impact to the procedures in the office, organising our team of Volunteers and running our marketing and social media. The recruitment of these roles would not have been possible without your support.

2019 will be an exciting year for Smart Works Edinburgh, we are in the process of viewing larger office space to accommodate our planned growth in clients and voluntary staff and we are planning on launching a graduate placement programme.

We are also delighted to announce that the Duchess of Sussex has become the Royal Patron of Smart Works, this raises our profile further and is an amazing accolade for the Charity. As a global campaigner for women and their rights worldwide, The Duchess will shine a light on Smart Works, enabling more women to come to our centres and get the job that will transform their lives.

On behalf of Smart Works Edinburgh, we are very grateful for your generosity and wish you an enjoyable and successful luncheon in 2019.

We are extremely grateful to Original Travel, Saffrey Champness, Diageo and other anonymous benefactors for their generous sponsorship this year.

Also thanks to Augustine Jewels, Arisiag House, Initially London, Naisbitt King Asset Management, Chloe Gardner, Highland Soap and Justerini & Brooks.

All the support from these firms is hugely appreciated

We would also like to thank the following businesses that have taken advertising in this programme for their generous support.

Luncheon 2020

The Women of Achievement Luncheon will be supporting Scotland's Charity Air Ambulance next year, on Tuesday 17th March.

Scotland's Charity Air Ambulance Saving Time, Saving Lives

In a time critical medical emergency, Scotland's Charity Air Ambulance (SCAA) can reach 90% of Scotland's population in less than 25 minutes.

SCAA was launched in May 2013 during which time it has responded to over 2,000 emergency call-outs, saved countless lives and limbs and impacted on thousands of people throughout Scotland.

SCAA receives no statutory government financial support and is funded solely from charitable donations from enlightened corporations, trusts and foundations, as well as receiving the vast majority of its funds from the people of Scotland.

SCAA has recently announced ambitious plans to launch a second helicopter in Aberdeen, callsign Helimed 79, and funds raised from the Women of Achievement lunch will help deliver this life-saving service.
