Welcome to the 2014 Women of Achievement Lunch

This is the seventh Woman of Achievement Luncheon. It is an incredible accomplishment and would not be possible without our very hard working committee and you, giving us your time and commitment today. Thank you.

The committee were delighted to present a cheque for over £17,000.00 to the Prince's Trust last year. This year we hope to raise the same for The Prince's Trust Youth Business Scotland Explore Enterprise Programme. The aim of the programme is to inspire, launch and boost young people aged between 18 and 30. It helps to educate them on how to start their own businesses. The Prince's trust gives one to one support to help explore and test their ideas with the aim of turning it into a business plan. It guides them on how to apply for loans and provides mentoring to develop their skills. This programme is vital to so many young people.

We are very grateful to continuing support from our Gold sponsor, RBS and our Silver sponsors, Diageo and Gleneagles who make it possible to give so much to The Prince's Trust. I would also like to thank all the people who have donated prizes for our raffle.

I hope you will enjoy listening to our accomplished and inspirational speakers, Kirsty Wark, journalist and television presenter. India Hicks, model, mother and entrepreneur and Rosamund de la Hey owner and founder of Main Street Trading. They have all achieved so much in an ever increasing competitive world.

Thank you again for all your support we do appreciated it greatly.

Venetia Fuller - Chairman

The Women of Achievement Luncheon today will enable us to change the landscape of Scotland's business start-ups by empowering our most disadvantaged young people to become entrepreneurs, preparing them for the future and making Scotland competitive once again.

Are you supporting women in enterprise?

If you're a non-profit organisation running a programme to help women to build their skills and start up in business, you could be eligible for a grant of up to £50,000.

We want to enhance the role of women in business across the UK. By the end of 2015, we will inspire and enable 20,000 women to explore and unlock their enterprise potential.

Visit rbs.com/inspiringenterprise for details of the eligibility criteria and how to apply.

 RBS Group

RBS has been helping people to start up and succeed in business for nearly 300 years. Supporting UK enterprise and achievement is a fundamental part of what we do through our products, services, partnerships and sponsorships, and we're pleased to say that, last year, RBS opened more bank accounts for women starting their own business than any other bank.

Since 2007 our network of Women in Business specialists have also been providing dedicated centres of excellence in their local communities, supporting female entrepreneurs and encouraging more women to set up in business.

As the leading UK bank in providing business accounts and services to Women, RBS is proud to sponsor this years Women of Achievement lunch.

The next round of funding will be open for applications in June 2013. Register at our website to be kept up to date.

CELEBRATING 120 YEARS

www.barbour.com

Welcome to the 2014 Women of Achievement Luncheon, there are many influential and inspiring women who work tirelessly to help raise vital funds for The Prince's Trust in Scotland and I am delighted that so many of you could join us here today.

The Women of Achievement Luncheon is held to recognise and celebrate the achievements and contributions made in many varied fields in Great Britain by women who have Scottish connections. Kindly sponsored and supported by DIAGEO and The Gleneagles Hotel, the proceeds from the Luncheon will support The Prince's Trust Scotland Enterprise programme. In 2013 this event generated a fantastic £18,000 for The Prince's Trust Scotland.

The vital funds raised on behalf of The Prince's Trust Scotland have helped us to reach out to young people across the country. We have helped them to develop their confidence, boost their skills through education and training, gain sustainable jobs and start their own businesses. Your support has helped transform many young people's lives for the better.

The Prince's Trust Scotland helps disadvantaged young people aged 13 to 30, at every stage of their journey into work or learning. We work with those who have faced barriers preventing them from reaching their full potential such as unemployment, time spent in care, young people who have a criminal record, young people who are or have been homeless or those with mental or physical health problems or disabilities.

Last year we made a difference to the lives of over 6000 young people in Scotland and this year, we are on track to help 8,000. Three out of four young people who take part in Prince's Trust programmes, go on to achieve positive outcomes in education, work and business.

I'd like to take this opportunity to say a massive heartfelt thank you to the Women of Achievement and their guests, the committee and the events team who have worked hard to ensure that today is a success.

With your support, we can change the lives of disadvantaged young people all across Scotland.

Tara Leathers,
Director of Fundraising. The Prince's Trust

Explore Enterprise - success stories

Jen Dott - Enterprise

While at school, Jen was bullied very badly. She left with few friends and little confidence.

Finding herself unemployed, depression left her struggling to gain employment. When taking her puppy to be groomed, Jen spotted an opportunity. She was forced to travel far to a place with a bad reputation and Jen Realised she could do better.

Approaching The Prince's Trust, she signed up to The Enterprise programme. Here she received an introduction to business and funding with which to purchase essential equipment.

Her business venture, 'Short, Bark and Sides' offers haircuts, baths and nail trimming to all breeds of dog.

Since starting her business, Jen is much more outgoing and has come out of her shell. For the future, she hopes to open a few shops and take on staff.

Since engaging with The Trust, life is completely different for Jen. She is much happier, more confident and feels positive about the future.

Catriona Glover Enterprise

Catriona grew up in a house with barred windows and doors as her family were missionaries in apartheid South Africa. Political tensions led to escalating violence toward the family until they were forced to come home to Scotland.

As Catriona began her art studies, a brutal assault at the age of 18 left her isolated and struggling with post-traumatic stress.

Melissa Currie - Enterprise

Although she lacked direction, Melissa had a real passion for hair and beauty and was keen to find a way into the industry. Limited by a lack of employment experience and on-going health problems, it was during a stay in hospital that Melissa found out about The Trust's Enterprise programme after doing research on the internet.

She loved meeting other like-minded people with similar ambitions and acquired a solid grounding in basic business practice. Melissa benefitted from guidance from a business mentor.

Macs Glasgow Hair & Beauty launched in 2011 and offers a range of hair and beauty treatments. The company has grown from its original mobile beginnings into a flourishing venture in Glasgow's vibrant West End.

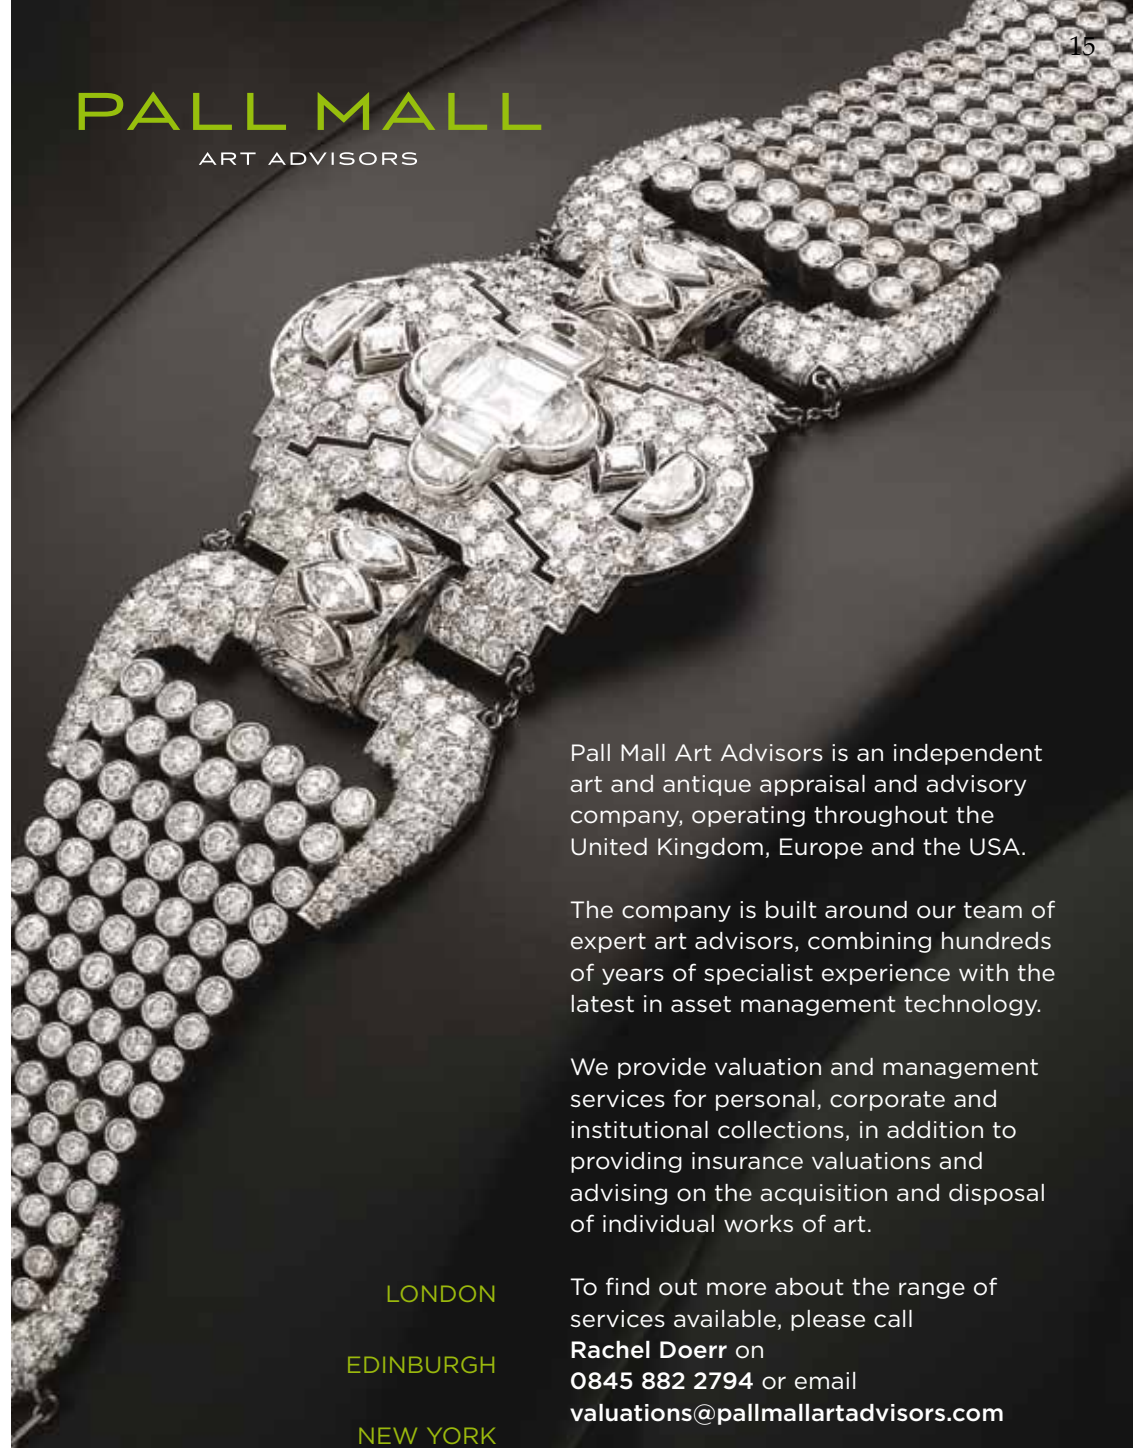

While working hard at making a success of her salon, she has also introduced her own Wunnabe branded products and continues to provide an excellent service to her customers.

Aberdeen Asset Management is proud to support the Women of Achievement Luncheon in aid of The Prince's Trust 'Building Young Futures – Explore Enterprise' programme.

Rosamund de la Hey

After 15 years in publishing (most of it as marketing director with Bloomsbury Children's Books, home of Harry Potter among many others), Rosamund opened The Mainstreet Trading Company (Books, Cafe & Gift) with her husband Bill in 2008.

Based in the Scottish Borders, the shop has built a loyal customer base, winning Independent Bookseller of the Year (British Book Awards) and Telegraph Best Bookshop in 2012. Later the same year, the shop expanded to include Deli & Home departments which, along with a lively events programme (including the likes of Clare Balding, Jeremy Paxman and Michael Morpurgo), has increased the shop's profile and 'destination' appeal.

India Hicks

India Hicks is the daughter of David Hicks, the interior decorator and Lady Pamela Hicks. She was educated at Gordonstoun and then backpacked around the world for a year before doing a Foundation course in Art in London. She then moved to Boston to take a degree in photography and graduated with honours. India went on to model for fashion houses such as Ralph Lauren and Giorgio Armani.

Kirsty Wark

Kirsty Wark is one of Britain's most experienced television journalists. She has presented a wide range of programmes over the past twenty six years - from the ground breaking Late Show to Election specials, live stadium events, and for the past twenty years, the BBC's flagship nightly current affairs show Newsnight. For the past decade she has hosted the weekly Arts and Cultural review and comment show, The Review Show (formerly Newsnight Review). She has conducted long form half hour interviews with everyone from Margaret Thatcher to Madonna, Harold Pinter to Pete Doherty, Damian Hirst to Toni Morrison, George Clooney and Donna Tartt.

Kirsty has made cameo appearances in a range of television dramas, radio programmes and films. She has featured in Dr Who, Absolutely Fabulous, The IT Crowd, Spooks, The Amazing Mrs Pritchard, The Acid House, Beyond the Pole, Party Animals, With Great Pleasure and The Politician's Husband. She reached the final in Celebrity Masterchef in 2011 and hosted the culinary quiz A Question of Taste for BBC2. She is currently making Arts Documentaries for BBC Television.

Kirsty has won several major awards for her work including BAFTA's for Journalist of the Year and Best Television Presenter. Kirsty was born in Dumfries and educated in Kilmaronock. She is married to Alan Clements and has two children.

India lives with David Flint Wood, the father of her four children on a small island in the Bahamas where they have built and restored four houses. She and David published a book 'Island Life' in 2003 and she has published a second book 'Island Beauty'. India also designs collections of fine jewelry, bedding, bath and beauty products inspired by her life in the tropics which are sold under her website: indiahicks.com.

As well as their four children India and David have fostered a Bahamian boy, Wesley, who was left an orphan when his mother died.

THE PRINCE'S SCOTTISH YOUTH BUSINESS TRUST

The Women of Achievement Luncheon committee presenting a cheque for £18,000 to the Prince's Trust 2013

The Prince's Trust has an excellent track record as Scotland's leading youth charity supporting young people into education, training, work and self-employment. In Scotland, the Trust currently works with young people aged 13 to 25, to build their confidence, increase their motivation and improve their employability.

In 2011 The Prince's Trust merged with fellow youth organisation Fairbridge, enhancing our capacity to support disadvantaged young people. Following this year's merger with PSYBT, The Trust now has a comprehensive range of programmes for young people in Scotland from intensive engagement programmes for the hardest to reach, through vocational training courses, to support for young people to start and grow their own business.

In such uncertain economic times, the integration of PSYBT with The Prince's Trust in Scotland has created a stable, strong and focused organisation, capable of making a significant contribution to sustainable economic growth for Scotland.

United, we are integrating our skills, expertise and resources to grow a programme of assistance to young people in Scotland who have ambitions to create and grow their own business - from those young people who are facing disadvantage, through to those young business owners with potential to grow their business and create new jobs for other young people.

We have set ourselves ambitious targets for the next three years. By extending the reach and impact of the proven Youth Business Scotland (YBS) model and building stronger links to a wider range of Prince's Trust provision, between April 2013 and March 2016 we will;

- Inspire a significant number of Scotland's young people with positive, engaging messages about youth enterprise.
- Support the launch of over 2000 young businesses.
- Double the number of growth businesses supported in total we will support over 400 existing young businesses with expansion and growth funding.
- Support our young businesses to create over 3,500 jobs and achieve a combined turnover of over £100 million.

KZ Hair

Courtenay Campbell & Stacey Duff

Courtenay & Stacey operate two hairdressing salons under franchise agreements with the KZ Hair group of salons. The first salon located in Shawlands, Glasgow opened in May 2009, and the second salon located in Kilmarnock, Ayrshire was an existing salon operated by the founder of the KZ Hair Group, Kerr Duff.

Diane Houston Gilda & Pearl 0207 278 2121 www.gildapearl.co.uk

Diane Houston started her lingerie business, Gilda & Pearl in 2009.

After studying at the London College of Fashion, Diane moved away from the fashion world and settled into a career as a journalist. However, after attending a part time lingerie making Course and selling her designs at Portobello market, she decided to fulfil her dream of running her own underwear company and approached Youth Business Scotland for funding.

Annie Williams

Senior head of Major Donor Development at The Princes Trust.

Annie has been part of the National Fundraising team at The Prince's Trust for the past eight years and is responsible for the Major donor and major gift strategy; and has responsibility for an annual budget of £4.8m.

Red Roof Café Gallery

Elly Knight

With a background as a commercial artist, musician and experience in interior design Elly Knight developed plans to open an art gallery and music café to exhibit her own work. The discovery of a house plot for sale in Glendale, on the Isle of Skye, that included a ruined Blackhouse seemed the perfect opportunity to realise her dream, so in 2009 Elly and her partner moved into a caravan on the plot and started work renovating the Blackhouse and building their own house.

The Women of Achievement Luncheon
Supporting Scottish Charities

The Women of Achievement Committee was formed in 2007 and the first lunch took place at the Caledonian Club in 2008. The Lunch has raised to date, over £100,000.00 for various Scottish Charities ranging from protecting Puffins, Squirrels and Bees to helping young people through one of the Prince's Trust Youth Business Scotland's many projects, to achieve their ambitions in business and the wider world.

We plan with your help and continued support to raise funds for many more Charities based in Scotland in future years as our way of giving something back to assist young Business women or help with the environment where everyone will benefit. There are so many people and groups who need those extra funds to achieve their ambitions and plans. We hope to help where we can.

With your support this year and in the future, we will. Thank you.

Building Young Futures

Get into

Get into are short vocational courses that develop young people's skills in a specific sector.

Last year, around 50% of young people completing a Get into course moved on to work with a further 25% going on to more training.

What is covered

We cover a variety of sectors such as retail, customer service, construction, logistics, hospitality and cooking.

Sectors are chosen according to regional employment needs and are designed and developed with local employers.

Get into... aims to give young people aged 16 to 25 who are work ready, but do not have vocational skills, a mixture of practical training and experience that will enable them to get a job. It also provides them with the opportunity to meet potential employers.

What participants gain

During the course, young people will:

- ➔ learn new skills in a specific area of work and gain qualifications appropriate to the sector
- ➔ get practical experience of work
- ➔ improve their employability skills, including communication, teamwork, and reliability
- ➔ stage a final presentation, in which they say what they have learnt
- ➔ get help with job interviews and preparing their CVs

Courses vary in length from between two and six weeks. After the course has finished participants are given six months support to help them back into employment or further training.
